Types of Institutions

Australia has a diverse range of educational institutions that cater to students with different goals, whether they're aiming for skilled work, a degree, or English proficiency.

Universities

Universities are the apex of Australia's higher education system. There are 43 universities in total—39 public, 3 private, and 1 international (Carnegie Mellon University's Australian campus). These institutions offer qualifications from Bachelor's degrees (AQF Level 7) to Doctoral degrees (Level 10).

Technical and Further Education (TAFE) Institutes

TAFE institutions are government-owned and operated providers that deliver Vocational Education and Training (VET).

TAFE offers AQF-recognized qualifications from Certificate I (Level 1) to Advanced Diplomas (Level 6). Many TAFE programs also articulate into university degrees through credit transfer.

Course: Aged Care, Hospitality, Information Technology, Automotive, Construction, Childcare, Graphic Design.
